Mabel Taliaferro, the ingenue of the group of five stars, comprising William H. Crane, Thomas W. Ross, Mabel Taliaferro and Amelia Bingham, who are now appearing in Joseph Brooks' production of "The New Henrietta," has achieved a popularity among women that has been accorded only to Maude Adams, Ethel Barrymore and Julia Marlowe. Miss Taliaferro's performance of Aimee in "The New Henrietta," is brimming over with lived to the ripe old age of eighty-eight."

Captain Scott Pictures.

In an astounding and spectacular pictorial drama of the "Endyng Story of Captain Scott's Expedition to the South Pole," Charles B. Hanford, the eminent Shakespearean actor, will begin a week's engagement at the Grand Monday, May 2. There will be daily matinees and evening performances. Through special arrangements with Herbert G. Ponting, Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of London, who accompanied Captain Scott to the land of the Great White Silence as the official camera artist of the expedition, Mr. Hanford will be seen in this soul inspiring pictorial drama of the most tragic adventure of modern times, and will personally appear at every performance during his engagement at the Grand.

No actor on the stage is better known than Charles B. Hanford. His name will ever be associated with the great achievements of both the American and English stage and goes back to the time when he was leading man for Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett and other of the greatest stars the theatrical world has ever known. This pictorial drama teems with human interest. It had a run of one year at the Coliseum theater, London, and is still in that city; it was a year at the Lyric theater, New York, and is booked for a return engagement in the metropolis. It is now ending its first year in Paris and was seven months at the Princess and Garrick theaters in Chicago. It broke all records for long runs at the Cort theater, San Francisco, and was the distinctive success of the Boston theatrical season.

Stock at Novelty.

The Himmelein Players will open a summer season in stock at the Novelty, beginning Monday, May 3, with "The Prince Chap." This is rather an odd name for a play, but it refers to the name given to the hero of a fairy tale, which the artist in the play tells to the little girl whose mother has died in the same house in which he is struggling and left the child as a charge in his hands. It is a rare and fascinating play and the characters are the spirit of youth and beauty. She gowns the part charmingly and displays a delicate sentiment and the delightful romance of her love for Bertie—poor, unawakened, good-hearted, loyal Bertie—in a manner that has created a new audience for her. It is perhaps the best thing Miss Taliaferro has ever done, although her record shows her very splendid performance of Love Mary in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and her presentation and beautiful characterization of Polly in "Polly of the Circus," but in Agnes, there is a note of motherhood and protection with which she covers Bertie's mistakes that makes the part an altogether delightful one. Miss Taliaferro's popularity grows with each performance.

"The New Henrietta" is coming to the Grand opera house on Monday night, April 26.

At the Novelty.

A well arranged five act program of vaudeville will be the offering at the Novelty for the first half of the closing week of vaudeville at this popular playhouse. A juggling novelty, that really is a novelty, will prove the offering of William DeHollis and company in "The Admiral's Reception." All the members of the company are eccentric jugglers. Leslie and Burns are a pair of comedians with a lot of nonsense and a number of good parodies, out of which they get a lot of fun.

Dividing applause honors will be the Three Ellisons in their musical novelty, "The Village Blacksmith." Out of their unusual instruments they succeed in producing classic as well as popular music. "Just From Brazil" will be offered by two nuts, Max Cooper and Irene Ricardo, who has her own idiosyncrasies of dress. The act is well handled and should prove a most entertaining number. Starting feats of skill and dexterity, interspersed with clever comedy, will be offered by Burns, Brown and Burns. They introduce new feats on the parallel. A new motion picture comedy completes the program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Pavlova, April 29.

That dancing is conducive to longevity is the belief of Mlle. Anna Pavlova, who comes to the Grand April 29. Pavlova has been dancing no less than two hours a day since she was ten years old.

The proof of the health-giving influence of dancing," says Mlle. Pavlova, "is the remarkable age to which some of the world's greatest dancers have lived. Paul Gerdt was a member of my company during the season of three years ago and danced at every performance. He is now seventy-three years old, and is still active and healthy. My dear old maestro, Enrico Cecchetti, who taught me for many years, is now seventy years old, and is still one of the world's greatest teachers of classic dancing. Christian Yorganson, another great teacher, died at the age of eighty-four, and continued to teach until the last year of his life. One day toward the end of his career Yorganson was leading a group of pupils up to his studio and he dashed up four flights of stairs like an athlete of one-third his years, then turned to the youngsters following him and said, "Come, hurry up, old ladies." Marius Petipa, one of the greatest of male dancers, was ninety-two years old when he died, and Maria Taglioni, the most famous premiere of her day, unusually well contrasted. "The Prince Chap" is in the hands of Miss Bessie Dainty and her excellent company, which opens at the Novelty under Mr. Himmelein. The programs will be changed twice weekly, with three matinees, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. New and special scenery will be painted for each production. The prices will be ten, twenty and thirty cents at night and dime matinees. Miss Dainty is well known throughout the east, where she is popular.
